Boston Bus Service Threatened By Poor Equipment

By Susan K. O'Neill

It is hot; they stand in the sun, shading their eyes, squinting down the street. A teenaged type, with spiked hair and shades and a Walkman hooked into her ears; a middle-aged man in work blues. A young man kisses his girlfriend goodbye. There is a grey-haired woman; a woman in a business suit; another in jeans, a stuffed duffle bag tugging at her shoulder. A tableau from Main Street, U.S.A., waiting for that classic symbol of American life on wheels—the bus.

The woman in jeans checks her watch. It is 11:22. The 11:15 is running slightly late.

Shussh of air brakes; peculiar bus-smell of diesel. The coach-style behemoth pulls to the curb. "Air Conditioned," it reads on the side—an announcement belied by the row of open windows.

One by one, they exchange their dollars for tickets, then thread back through the rows of half-full seats.

The Merrimack Transportation bus chuffs briskly away—down Route 125, then 93 and, ultimately, into Boston.

Beneath its placid metal hide, it is a bus under siege. Because Merrimack Valley legislators have received a number of complaints over the past two months about the service rendered to area commuters by this bus and its companions, they are preparing, on this hot 19th day of May, to meet with its owners at the end of the line in Boston.

For Stephen Caplan and Robert Marcielo, owner and general manager, respectively, of the Merrimack Transportation Company, the well-padded couch in the statehouse office of Lawrence area Rep. Kevin Blanchette could have been called the "hot seat." Blanchette and his fellow legislators—Reps. Nick Buglione (Methuen), Sue Tucker (Andover), Joe Herman (North Andover) and an aide from the office of Sen. Patricia McGovern (Lawrence)—had come for answers to a list of complaints from constituents, who were not pleased with the service that Merrimack has offered them since it took over the commuter route last fall.

According to Blanchette, riders had charged that buses sometimes didn't show up, or broke down on Route 93. Some had cited instances where vehicles had run out of gas; one alledged that a bus had made a run with its door jammed open. Many had deplored the dirtiness and seeming disrepair of the fleet.

In addition, riders had charged that, because the buses lacked radios, they were ill-equipped to call for assistance in the case of a breakdown.

Most of the complaints were relatively recent, Blanchette said; most had been registered since the time, approximately two months ago, when the state's Department of Public Utilities (DPU) had subjected the Merrimack fleet to a rigorous inspection and had required the company to replace faulty equipment.

Blanchette said that he had called the meeting to "get to the bottom of this; to see what can be done about it."

In addition to the lawmakers, John McCabe, director of the bus and train division of the DPU, was present. So were a few of Blanchette's aides—who, he said, daily experience the vagaries of the bus system first-hand as commuters.

Up front, Merrimack owner Caplan took responsibility for his company's deficiencies, explaining that he felt it was counterproductive to give excuses. He did, however, place many of those problems in perspective by offering a brief history of Merrimack's takeover and operation of the route.

In August of 1985, said Caplan, Trombly Motor Coach indicated that they were going to discontinue their routes to Bos-

Curatorial Appointment Announced

The appointment of Susan Faxon Olney to the Robert M. Walker curatorship of Paintings, Prints, Drawings and Sculpture at the Addison Gallery of American Art, Phillips Academy, Andover, was announced by the museum's director, Christopher C. Cook. The position, named in honor of Robert M. Walker, art historian and Andover alumnus who chaired the recent successful campaign to raise five million dollars in general support for the museum, fills a long-felt need to bring a lively historical advocacy to the museum's programs.

Priorities for the new position include the preparation of a comprehensive catalog of the museum's collections, the organization of historical exhibitions as part of the museum's program and teaching American art history to Phillips Academy students from the resources of the museum's collections. The appointment of Olney will provide an Americanist's historical perspective and complement the present curatorial positions of photography and contemporary art.

Olney, presently the director of the University Art Galleries, University of New Hampshire, Durham, N.H., has received a joint appointment as Addison curator and faculty member of Phillips Academy, the museum's parent institution. She will assume the position September 1.

During her 11-year tenure in Durham, Olney conceived and produced a diverse program of exhibitions, but her central concern, revealed in three major exhibitions, was "to document the culture and history of New Hampshire and its contribution to American cultural history." The first exhibition in the series, "A Stern and Lovely Scene: A Visual History of the Isles of Shoals," combined works of art by Childe Hassam, A.T. Brichner, Celia Thaxter, William Trust Richards and John Hatch with a wide-ranging selection of maps, manuscripts, books, historical objects and photographs to present a contextual visual panorama of New Hampshire's archipelago. This 1978 exhibition was accompanied by a 140-page catlogue supported by the National Endowment for the Arts. Two subsequent exhibitions, partially supported by the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities, followed: "The White Mountains: Place and Perceptions" produced in 1980, included works by Alfred Bierstadt, Winslow Homer, Benjamin Champney, Frederic Church, Thomas Cole, Thomas Doughty, Asher Durand and George Inness and books, maps, photographs and prints and was accompanied by a 148-page catalogue. In 1985, "A Circle of Friends: Art Colonies of Cornish and Dublin" traced the evolution of the Dublin and Cornish colonies and thoroughly documented the remarkable artistic circles that flourished in southwestern New Hampshire at the turn of the century. Other important exhibitions curated by Olney include one person exhibits of the work of Louisa Matthiasoddter, 1978; Jerome Witkin, 1981; Anne Arnold, 1983; John Laurent, 1984; and John Hatch, 1985. Other group exhibitions include "Two American Impressionists: Frank W. Benson and Edmund C. Tarbell," 1980 and "Nature and Imagination: Dutch Art of the 17th Century," 1982.

Olney is a graduate of Smith Collge and holds an M.S. in Historic Preservation and Restoration from Columbia University Graduate School of Architecture, New York City. She also studied at the Summer Institute, Henry Francis Dupont Winterthur Museum and completed courses toward a Ph.D. in American Studies at Boston University.

The Addision Gallery was established in 1931, through the gift of Thomas Cochran, on the campus of Phillips Academy, Andover. The museum is open free to the public.

ON YOUR FEET

Bunions are a common defornity of the Big Toe and the joint at the base of the big toe. The deformity is primarily caused by inherited bone structure and can be aggravated by shoe gear.
The problems associated with bunion deformities are usually a painful "bump" or enlargement on the inside of the foot at the base of the big toe and a deviated or crooked Big Toe that pushes against or under the second toe.
Correction of the deformity ranges from removal of the bump and realignment of the big toe, to more sophisticated procedures utilizing stainless steel screws. Following a thorough examination, we will discuss our findings and treatment modalities.

All these procedures are performed in the office operating room under local anesthesia. Advances in operating techniques provide selection of the best procedure(s) and minimal post-operative discomfort.

She was one of 17 students selected for the honor. The PSC chapter is one of more than 569 society chapters located on college and university eampuses throughout the United States.

Psi Chi was founded in 1929 for the purpose of "encouraging, stimulating and maintaining scholarship in and advancing the science of psychology." Membership is open to graduate and undergraduate students who "are making the study of psychology one of their major interests" and who meet the society's qualification.

Members elected officers are junior A. Neill Osgood of Kearsarge, N.H., president; junior Kathleen Melanson of Rochester, N.H., vice president; junior Linda Diane Corbett of Epsom, N.H., secretary; and senior Althea Mary Goundrey of Orford, N.H., treasurer.

Andover Student Wins Top Score

Students from nine schools from Massachusetts and New Hampshire met at Phillips Academy, Andover, on April 28 for the Tenth Annual Olympiada for Spoken Russian. Naomi Gendler of Andover, a senior at Phillips Academy, was the only student of all upper division students to receive a perfect 100 points in the general conversation category.

The three categories of expertise were general conversational skills, knowledge of the geography, literature and history of the USSR and a poetry recitation. The judges were mostly native speakers and Russian professors from nearby colleges and universities.

Phillips Academy received nine gold medals, 15 silver and 13 bronze in the two divisions representing differing levels of competence in the Russian language. No other school had close to as high a percentage of medalists for their total number of students.

Naomi, daughter of Rabbi Everett and Mary Gendler of Haggetts Pond Road, is president of the debating club, the Jewish Student Union and the Russian club. She is a pianist, on the Friday Forum committee and involved in helping the Lawrence Boys' Club develop a newspaper. Naomi attended West Junior High School.

Andover Healthfare Scheduled

Healthfare Andover '86 will be held Saturday, June 14, at the Andover Walk-In Medical Center, 138 Haverhill St., Andover, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

This special event to promote good health for area residents is a local program which is held annually. Similar events are held throughout the state each spring. Health care professionals from Greater Lawrence will offer a variety of free screening tests, including vision, hearing, blood pressure, oral cancer and gluaucoma. Blood chemistry profiles, including coronary risk assessments, will be available at a minimal cost. The comprehensive health education program will offer counseling and medical referrals as well as exhibits and demonstrations related to basic health information.

According to Everett Penney, Andover's director of public health and coordinator of Healthfare '86, "This is a perfect opportunity for people to learn specifics about their own health through testing and asking questions of area professionals. The health care participants will be gathered under one roof to give everyone who stops by access to the type of service and information he or she most wants.

Patricia Palermo, administrator of the Andover Walk-In Medical Center, explained, "Sponsorship of this event is important to us because it reinforces our primary objectives of being involved in the community by providing quality services and easy availability to fulfill people's medical needs."

Healthfare '86 is scheduled during the first birthday celebration month of the Andover Walk-In Medical Center.

Further information about Healthfare Andover '86 is available by calling the Andover Department of Public Health.

Volunteers Needed At Institute

The continuance of the St. Francis Institute and its services to the people of the Merrimack Valley requires that volunteers help with the promotion of its programs. Without this cooperatin from the community, the rendering of service to the needy will be virtually impossible.

Volunteers can help with dropping off or addressing flyers, posting notices, telephoning and other activities related to promotion and advertising. This work can be done at the institute or at home.

The St. Francis Institute has been appreciative of all efforts by generous people. The institute needs teachers in order to render these needed services.

There is also a serious need for individuals and groups to donate to the already depleted scholarship fund which helps worthy students receive instructions in various school subjects and test-taking preparations.

The St. Francis Institute also invites people to become Friends of St. Francis. In this way, one can be an associated member of The St. Francis Institute.

To volunteer, donate or become a friend, write Fr. Lucius Annese, O.F.M., Director, St. Francis Institute, P.O. Box 263, Andover, MA 01810.

Library Seeking Returns

As another school year comes to a close, "It's time to check under beds, in bookcases, the car, etc., to unearth overdue materials and return them to the school or town libraries," says Annette Freedman, director of school libraries.

"In our annual spring inventory we have noticed several reference books are missing. Not only are they valuable to the reference librarians and patrons, but their loss means considerable expense to taxpayers and often they cannot be replaced," according to Shirley McGrath, assistant director of Memorial Hall Library.

Books may be returned to the circulation desk or placed in the book drop at the main library. In this special effort, Andover school library books may also be returned to Memorial Hall Library.

Settling Personal Injury Claims

Persons injured in accidents are often contacted directly by an insurance company and asked to give details of the accident or discuss settlement. Talking to an insurance adjuster yourself or settling your claim before you understand its true value can be a very costly mistake. It is wise to consult an attorney as soon as possible after the accident and to have your attorney assist you in responding to all questions concerning the accident.

Contact Neil E. Onerheim or John S. Wessler, who represent accident victims seeking compensation for their injuries.

An Adventurer Who Shared Experiences Will Retire

By Susan K. O'Neill

Audrey DesRoches poses with two of her young fans, Nathan Hatch and Nate VanZeldte, next to "onion domed" towers.

The towers of the Russian palace are crowned with authentically classic "onion domes." Instead of stone, however, its parapets are built of white cardboard, and the domes—

They're onions, of course.

The intricate creation sits on a table in a room of the West Parish Nursery School, behind Andover's West Parish Church. Its twenty-plus small architects and builders learned of onion domes and parapets and Russian lore at the knee of a traveler with first-hand knowledge of that country—WPN's director, Audrey DesRoches.

DesRoches is an adventurer; every year for the past five years, she has visited far-flung foreign lands with other educators. Then, upon returning, she has shared the adventure with the students. "I bring my trip experiences back to the school and bring them down to their level," she explains. "We do a whole week on music, food, even the politics of the country I've traveled in." She smiles easily, often. "It makes it relevant to them to know I've been in the country."

She brings them stories, too—a "good" one and a "horror" tale—maybe a folk tale or a true account, like the story about how the Scottish author of "The Bonny, Bonny Banks of Loch Loman" languished in prison, and was ultimately beheaded, while waiting for his girlfriend to come to the rescue.

This year, after 22 years with the nursery school, Audrey DesRoches will be setting off on a new adventure—one which she will not be able to share so easily with her young fans. DesRoches will be retiring.

Retiring—the word seems incongruous with the energetic, self-assured woman with the blond hair and the unflinching blue eyes. A change of lifestyle, perhaps—that would seem more accurate.

DesRoches has made a number of changes in her lifestyle over the years. Born in Bristol, N.H., a tiny town on Newfound Lake, she graduated from LaSalle Junior College in Newton to work in retailing.

She married and started her family. Then, 26 years ago, she and her husband and two children moved to Andover.

DesRoches came to West Parish Nursery School as an aid when her two children were established in high school. She had taught part-time, on a substitute basis, in the public system's early grades; working with young children appealed to her. The hours of the job, too, attracted her; they allowed her to be at home for her own children.

"I came here as a young mother," she says. "I still feel strongly that the mother should be home when the child comes back from school—" she qualifies the statement—"or that they should have a consistant care-taker."

During the next three years, DesRoches took courses that would qualify her to teach—which, for a number of years, she did. Approximately 10 years ago, she became the school's director.

DesRoches' lifestyle took an unexpected turn six years ago when her husband passed away. She weathered the loss with characteristic strength. "I don't find widowhood to be the 'pits'," she says. "I had—and have—marvelous friends who continued to include me in their plans."

She also formulated a plan of her own. "I decided I'd travel more; I would keep the house (DesRoches lives near the school, on Reservation Road); I would be open to any new experiences—" the ready smile—"which I always am, anyway, so that's not too difficult."

She began traveling for education—and for fun. In addition to her more academic forays, she also spends personal time in "the islands." Which islands? "I think I've been on all of them," she says with a laugh.

DesRoches credits her ability to adapt to life's twists and turns, in part, to her small-town roots. Growing up in Bristol, she recalls, she lived among a variety of people, in an atmosphere of general acceptance.

"I think I've been pretty lucky because of the wonderful friends I've had and have," she says, "of all age groups, social strata—I've always been open to relationships. A lot of people in Andover, I feel, have a very closed life. A social life limited to the same people. They travel in certain places only, with certain kinds of people."

During the 22 years DesRoches has spent with West Parish Nursery, she says, her young charges and their parents have also undergone a number of changes. "Children are more knowledgeable now," she says. "More uninhibited. They're like computers—they take it all in and spit it out. They're more verbal about their fears and their feelings—which is good."

And, she adds firmly, they're noisier. "They don't talk anymore. They yell." It's a natural response to the wonders of this modern age, she theorizes—a result of the child's competing for attention with a constant background of radio, television and other mechanical devices. "Our whole home atmosphere is loaded with noise-making things."

Surprisingly, according to DesRoches, these childen of the Rambo age seem to fight with their peers much less frequently than their predecessors. "Maybe it's because we keep them so busy here," she says.

The parents who comprise the school's governing board, with whom DesRoches works closely, have also changed. "They're much more involved and interested—and demanding of their director," she says. "They expect more in the way of formal preparation of the child for school and for life. But in return, I feel they are very supportive." Fathers, she adds, have become much more involved in their children's education.

The philosophies of West Parish Nursery School reflect DesRoches' realization that at least half the parents want some academic instruction for their children. "We're traditional in that we do have a planned curriculum," she says. There is a gentle structure to the 9 to 12:30 day; children are taught, for example, to recognize letters and colors and numbers. "I think they need a little preparation," she says. "They should be prepared to realize that school isn't going to be two-and-one-half hours of play. But they love to learn. And if they're not ready for it, they're not forced into it."

It's very important to DesRoches that

Spring Sing 86

The Andover Choral Society presented their "Spring Sing" pops concert to the benefit scholarship fund last Friday evening at the Doherty Junior High School. Under the direction of Conductor George H. Redman, successor to J. Everett Collins who founded the Society and was music director for 56 years, 38 members of the Choral Society entertained with the classics by Beethoven, Mozart, Handel, Gershwin and others in the program. Spring Concert At Phillips

The music department of Phillips Academy will present the Academy Symphony and Chamber Orchestras in concert on Friday, May 23, at 7:30 p.m. in Cochran Chapel. The public is invited. There is no charge.

Christine Yoo, a senior, will perform Mozart's "Piano Concerto in A Major" with the Corelli Society Orchestra. Daniel Ahn, a senior, will perform Max Bruch's "Violin Concerto." Ahn is the concertmaster of the orchestra and this year's recipient of the Charles Cutter Prize for excellence in string playing.

The concert will include two works by Igor Stravinsky (1882-1971). The Academy Chamber Orchestra, joined by members of the music department's wind faculty, will perform "Pulcinella Suit," based upon a series of dance movements composed by the Baroque composer Giovani Pergolesi. Stravinsky used Pergolesi's melodies as a source for the entire work.

The program will conclude with the 1919 version of Stravinsky's Ballet Suite "The Firebird," the story of two magic beings, the Firebird, a kind of good fairy, and the ogre Kastchei who holds maidens captive and turns men to stone. Young Prince Ivan wanders into the magic garden, captures the bird and is rewarded with a golden feather for releasing it. This is instrumental in his finding the source of Kastchei's power, an egg-shaped casket, and destroying it. Kastchei dies and the prince marries one of the captive maidens.

Wristwatches were first made in the 1790s.

The Smothers Brothers

Appearing In Collins Concert

The "Spring into Summer" series continues at the Collins Center in Andover with the Smothers Brothers highlighting the evening's entertainment on Monday, June 9, at 8 p.m, as the second concert of four in the series.

"We were musicians first. We worked hard on our songs, but, finally, comedy took over," says Dick Smothers of the act he shares with his brother, Tom, which has taken them from their debut performance at San Francisco's Purple Onion in 1959 to such entertainment capitals as Las Vegas, Lake Tahoe and Atlantic City and has brought them three gold records.

Eventually the nightclub led to the television studio when CBS premiered the "Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour" in the late sixties. However, the brothers' political views caused the surprise hit to be as controversial as it as popular and the show was cancelled. Explains Tom, "We were never really political. In putting together our show, we simply tried to reflect the concerns and attitudes of the American people."

After a four-year hiatus from the concert circuit, during which time they performed separately and portrayed best friends in the Broadway musical comedy "I Love My Wife," the Smothers Brothers began touring again in 1980 and now appear coast to coast, sharing their music, satire and brotherly rivalry with sell-out audiences. Tom says, "in the show, Dickie says, 'People didn't come to hear us argue' and I say, 'Some of them did.' You see, our differences are real. We're constantly at odds with each other, but that's the energy that gives life to what we do."

Tickets are available at the Collins Center, Shawsheen Road, Andover, and at all Ticketron outlets.

Chorus To Present "H.M.S. Pinafore"

The Phillips Academy Chorus will present scenes from "H.M.S. Pinafore" by Gilbert and Sullivan on Sunday, May 25, at 4 p.m. in Cochran Chapel. The performance will be conducted by Christopher Walter and accompanied by Carolyn Skelton on piano.

Soloists will be Caroline Hershey '87 singing the role of Josephine; Jennifer Amstutz '86 of Andover in the role of Buttercup; Michael Handler '86 as Sir Joseph and Samuel Gomez '86 in the part of the Captain.

The public is invited.

Directs Academy Production

Elysa Marden, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Reginald Marden, 10 Orchard St., Andover, is assistant director of the spring student production, "Barefoot in the Park," at Governor Dummer Academy in Byfield.

The Neil Simon's popular comedy will be presented Friday and Saturday, May 23 and 24, at 8 p.m. in the school's Thompson Performing Arts Center.

This is the fourth production for Elysa, who was assistant director of the winter production, the musical version of Studs Terkel's "Working," and was on the tech crew of "Back County Crimes" and "Streetcar Named Desire."

Elysa is a member of Cum Laude, the Honor Society, Thespian Society, tour team, commencement committee, Big Sisters and spring term project committee and is co-managing editor of the "Milestone," the yearbook.

Elysa spent eight weeks in Japan last summer with "Youth for Understanding" and related some of her experiences recently in a convocation, talking about "Curiosity." An accomplished pianist, she played Debussy's "Arabesque" in a recent Fine arts Concert at Governor Dummer and hopes to major in Asian studies in college.

"Barefoot in the Park" is the story of newlyweds Corie and Paul Bratter who live in New York City. They try to fix up Corie's mother, Ethel Banks, played by Jennifer Griffin of North Andover, with upstairs neighbor Victor Velasco.

Mike Jasse is director and Kris Kobialka is producer, assisted by Elizabeth Leary. Crew members include Glenn Distefano, technical director; Jennifer Killian, assistant technical director; Susie Griffin of North Andover and Emily Stephens, tech crew; and Karen Rybickiof, art director.

Governor Dummer Academy is a coeducational, preparatory school with an enrollment of 340 students. The oldest boys' boarding school in the country, it was founded in 1763.

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

Good prenatal is your first priority now that you've found out your pregnant. First decide what you want, talk with your husband and to see if he wishes to be present for prenatal exams as well as for the actual birth. Do the two of you want to be involved in decision-making, or do you want to rely on your doctor's expertise? Once you've decided what you're looking for, it certainly makes your choice of doctors an easier task. Ask friends and local hospitals for recommendations of what doctors would fit your needs. As long as you and your husband feel comfortable with the doctor - then it's a wise decision.

I tried every pill, every gimmick to lose weight. Only to feel miserable when I gained it all back. Finally I said no, never again—this time I'm going to Diet Center. I lost the weight, without hunger. And I'm keeping it off.

Invention Convention Scheduled

Teachers and administrators in schools in Andover, as well as all over America, are taking on an old challenge in the light of 21st century needs: teaching students to think.

Students from kindergarten through grade six have been engaging in elaborative thinking exercises as they prepare for the First Annual Andover Invention Convention on Thursday, June 12, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at West Elementary School. Inventors have visited classrooms, media centers have featured invention books, classroom teachers are trying out elaboratve thinking techniques on students and princpals are signing hordes of pattern applications.

Elementary school student inventors will be present to demonstrate their inventions and answer questions.

The convention will be the culmination of a project that has been going on in the elementary school over the last few months. This project emanated from a group of Andover teachers who are members of Assistant Superintendent Lois Haslam's study group and is a fun project that serves to motivate productive thinking skills. Elementary students were invited to submit an invention, either individually or in a group, that would improve an existing idea, combine two or more ideas to create an original idea, provide a solution to a problem encountered in daily life, or an invention that was an original computer software program. These inventions are to be something useful, something students might use to make life easier, and the materials have come from the students' immediate, everyday environment.

Members of the study group were named productive thinking trainers at each school and have been serving as information resources and suppoorters to staff and students.

Many excellent imaginative inventions will be on display and the public is invited.

Down The Years With The Townsman

75 Years Ago — May 1911

Considerable difficulty is being experienced in digging the trench for the sewer on Wolcott Avenue. A heavy ledge of rock has been struck which has entailed much drilling and blasting and as a consequence the progress of construction has been much retarded.

With today's announcement we close the subscription for Chelsea Relief. It will be noted that the total receipts have amounted to over $1,000, marking a generosity on the part of Andover citizens that is large and prompt in its manifestation.

Edward Brooks and family have returned to town after having spent several weeks in the Bahama Isands.

Entertainment has been held lately on Saturday nights in Abbot Village, which does not stop at twelve o'clock, but continues into Sunday morning. Many complaints have been made and in the future the disturbers will be prosecuted.

Under the new plan for rural telephone service proposed by the New England Telephone and Telegraph company, owners of farms, country homes of city business people, stores, etc., in places with a population of 20,000 or less, can have telephone connections with the general system of New England at very moderate cost. The principal features of the plan are the construction of local lines by subscribers themselves and connection with the nearest office of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

50 Years Ago — May 1936

The new principal of the John Dove School, Miss Catherine M. Barrett, entered upon her new duties at the opening of school for the final spring term last Monday morning. The previous principal, Mrs. Margaret Kimball, resigned last September and since that time, the school has gone without a principal.

Andover should vote annually the salaries which are to be paid elective officers, according to Edward H. Fenton, acting director of accounts in the Department of Corporations and Taxations at the State House. The town has not done this for years, even last March when the sentiment of the town seemed to be in favor of a salary scale for the elective officials which was not legally affected.

The woodwork on the outside of the town hall will be painted this year, with John Scherner being the painter. Sherner won with his low bid of $85 for the job. McCall will paint the flag pole for $15 being the only bidder.

25 Years Ago — May 1961

Miss Marjorie Sargent of Oriole Drive has received a personal letter from Princess Lilian of Belgium. The friendly letter contained congratulations and words of thanks to the Andover blood donors who "adopted" the Belgian children in Boston for heart surgery. Many Andover donors gave blood which was needed before delicate surgical procedures could begin.

John Mason Kemper, headmaster of Phillips Academy, was awarded an honorary doctor of humane letters degree on Wednesday morning at a Recognition Assembly of Colby College. President J. Seelye Bixter conferred the degree and made awards to 55 undergraduates in recognition of academic and campus achievement.

Taxpayers grumbled and rumbled throughout the town this week echoing one general complaint, "My valuation is too high." Following the trial batch of official notices that went out Tuesday. The assessors office in town hall resembled Grand Central Station, with taxpayers swarming to ask questions, file request forms for personal interviews or just complain.

10 Years Ago — May 1976

An outside consultant put a preliminary price tag of $450,00 on interior renovations at Andover High School to see the town through the secondary population bulge of the next few years.

The Dale Street site for a new post office processing center is not a foregone conclusion as far as Andover officials are concerned. The story announced last week in the TOWNSMAN is now under study by local officials, although the postal service has an option on the 97,400 square feet of land located across form Mills Stream Industrial Park.

Fresh native asparagus is beginning to appear at produce counters with a bright new green and white label. It's the first crop of the season to be identified with a symbol of the state "Massachusetts grown and fresher."

A busy year is rapidly coming to a close for the superb group of musicians known as the Andover High School Band. Since last fall, the Golden Warrior musicians have been on a busy schedule, beginning with accompanying the state champion football team along its road to success.

An estimated 200 plus parents attended the traditional program meeting at West Elementary School, on May 12.

When the Statue of Liberty was built in 1886, she cost $250,000.

Outdoor carol singing seems to have started in the Middle Ages when groups of people went from house to house to sing by torchlight.

Bus Service

ton from North Andover, Andover, Lawrence, Salem, N.H., and Methuen. Caplan said that his company negotiated in good faith with Trombly, ultimately buying both the route and the existing fleet.

"When we took this over," he said, "we were trying to look down the road." He felt that the route had a good ridership, growth potential, and the potential to become profit-making.

However, the transition has not exactly been rosy; in Caplan's words, "Everything that could have gone wrong, did."

To begin with, the buses were old—11 or 12 years, in most cases. The trade-in value of a 12-year-old bus being nil, the company found itself facing extensive—and expensive—maintenance.

Furthermore, the agreement with Trombly did not include purchase of the fleet's radio system. Because setting up one's own system requires a base station, Merrimack could not install radios until it had housing for its 19 vehicles.

While it has been using Trombly's North Andover property for shelter on a temporary basis, Merrimack has had to cast about for a maintenance facility. Its lease for its previous facility expired this winter; Caplan maintained that some of its equipment problems peaked during the disruption of the move from that garage to the facility it now uses in South Boston.

"We know better than anyone how bad it is not to have an operation running as well as it can," concluded Caplan. But the company is working to improve its service and its fleet, he said. Six of its 19 buses have been taken out of service because they are not roadworthy; with the move to South Boston for maintenance, buses are now being cleaned. Merrimack hopes to upgrade its fleet by applying to the state Executive Office of Transportation (EOTC) in the near future, he said, to take advantage of a program through which the state buys new buses and leases them to commuter lines for a reduced fee.

Furthermore, said Caplan, the company is negotiating with ABC Bus Company of North Andover for a permanent home in the area; if all goes well, they expect to move in about two weeks. The new facility will make it possible for Merrimack to set up a radio base station.

The company also intends to keep fares at their present rate—$2.90 per ticket, or $20.70 for a nine-ride commuter book. "We're competing with cars, and we're competing with the train, which is already cheaper," said Caplan. "If we raise the fares as little as five cents, we lose ridership."

To help keep costs under control, he said, the company will be working to increase the efficiency of the schedule. For the summer, this might involve dropping two daily runs.

On the whole, Caplan concluded, Merrimack is working hard to bring its service in line with the needs of its public. However, the silver lining that Caplan hopes to glimpse, after such cloudy beginnings for his company, might not emerge untarnished.

As he indicated, negotiations seem to be going well for a permanent home in ABC's new terminal. According to ABC vice president Charlie Carrell, a potential lease is now being examined by Merrimack's lawyers. "I don't see any reason why, if they sign the lease, they can't be in by June first," he says.

And yes, the lease does allow Merrimack to erect an antenna on the roof of the facility for radio communications.

But upgrading the fleet through the EOTC program might prove a bit trickier. According to Michael Sharff, the director of the state's Bus Capital program, the leasing is funded every two years. At each round of leasing, which is open to applicant carriers throughout Massachusetts, no one company may lease more than 25 per cent of the total purchased by the state.

At its next round, says Sharff, the department will probably have 24 to 25 buses available. Theoretically, then, Merrimack could lease six new buses for a period of seven years each—if it is selected from the anticipated statewide list of applicants (applications have not yet been accepted for this round).

Sharff says that criteria for selection include the age of a company's fleet, the ability of that company to replace equipment on its own (maintenance is not the EOTC's responsibility), and the availability of other forms of transportation in the area served by the applicant.

At the first round of leasing, says Sharff, the Grey Lines obtained authority to sub-lease three buses it had obtained through the program to Merrimack. Buses from the second round, if obtained, will not be available for delivery until the end of 1986 at the earliest.

The legislators assembled at Monday's meeting voiced their eagerness to help Merrimack help itself by speaking with officials of the EOTC about the company's need for newer equipment, and by inquiring about possible subsidies that might be available through the Merrimack Valley Regional Transit Authority (MVRTA).

Joseph Costanzo, administrator of the Haverhill-based MVRTA, is uncertain whether his organization can help. The MVRTA deals primarily with local service, such as a shuttle, rather than private carriers running routes to Boston, he says. "The question is, A, do we have the legal capacity to help?" says Costanzo. "We would have to get an opinion from (state Transportation Secretary) Salvucci. And, if it could work, B, could we get the dollars to do it? Then, C, do we want to do it?"

According to John McCabe of the DPU, if Merrimack fails, there is no immediate successor waiting in the wings. "If they stop running," he says, "There're no buses. There's nobody up there who wants it; you can't make money on commuter runs. If Merrimack were to terminate running, I don't know of another company that would take it over."

she says, that the buses were cleaner and more well-maintained with Trombly. It seems, too, that communication between Merrimack and the company's patrons has ranged from slack to nonexistant.

But without the bus, she would be stranded. "I wouldn't have anything else. I've tried the train, but the schedule just isn't convenient for my hours."

Working part-time, she has little potential for a car pool.

She has no desire to drive in Boston—or to bear the eternal headache of finding a parking space every morning.

"In many ways," she muses, "that's why we tend to put up with what there is. After awhile, you get resigned to the fact that if the bus showed up, you're happy."

Honored By Connecticut College

Two Andover residents were recognized at the annual Honors and Awards ceremony, May 7, at Connecticut College, New London, Conn.

Wayne H. Elowe, '86, 41 School St., was awarded Sarah Nichols '46 Award for the music major who made the greatest contribution to the musical life of the campus.

Amy W. Marquis, '88, 143 Lovejoy Road, was awarded the Anthony Francis Nelson Memorial Prize to a sophomore for academic excellence in human ecology.

Celebration

The Merrimack River Watershed Council will sponsor four public river events as part of its annual celebration of the Merrimack River during American Rivers Month.

The Watershed Council is sponsoring a guided walk along the Merrimack through the laurels at the new Maudslay State Park in Newburyport on Friday, June 6, and Saturday, June 14. Preregistration is required.

The river organization will sponsor a canoe trip from Boscawen to Concord, N.H. on Saturday, June 7. The second half of the trip will be through the rapids at Sewalls Falls. Class II whitewater experience is required in order to participate.

A second canoe trip, co-sponsored with the New England Wild Flower Society, will travel from Litchfield to Hudson, N.H. on June 28. Riverfront botany and natural history will be the themes.

These canoe trips are open to the public, but the number of participating canoes will be limited.

For additional information or registration forms, send name and address to MRWC, 694 Main St., West Newbury, MA 01985.

her school give a child a positive experience—because this first year will affect his or her attitude about school for a long time.

Having shared so many years with West Parish Nursery children, DesRoches frankly admits that she will not be turning over the reins to her successor, Sandra Schmuhl, without some fears about the "empty nest" that retiring could create for her. "I have some fears about that," she says. "I think anyone does, after so many years. But I'm such an outgoing person, such a seeker—and there's so much out there. I'll find something."

Not just something, she is quick to add. She has considered working as an art agent; she buys art wherever she goes and has many friends in the field. "But God knows, I may not end up doing that," she says with a laugh.

As for volunteer work, "It would have to be in an area I'm committed to, not just to fill my time." She suggests that one such area would be the issue of teachers' pay. She speaks with grim irony of teachers who supplement their pay with food stamps to raise their family—people she knows. There is, she says, a state-level organization, supported by the governor, that is committed to finding ways to increase the wage level for workers in education; such an organization would be worthy of commitment.

Audrey DesRoches intends to sit down, put it all in perspective, and map out a five-year plan—she's so organized [illegible]. But not yet. "My life is so busy." Once again, there's the confident, strong laugh. "I'm tired. I'm anxious to stay home, read all the books I have piled up. And travel, whenever I can afford it."

Teachers Granted Fellowships

Edgar M. Johnson, Ed.D., and T. Albert Perley, both teachers at Andover High School, have been named as the 1986 winners in the "Growth Initiatives for Teachers" fellowship program.

Johnson, a science teacher and Perley, a math teacher, were selected out of 119 mathematics and science teachers chosen nationally in eight locations to participate in the GTE Gift program, sponsored by the GTE Government Systems, Waltham.

Both teachers will receive GTE fellowships of $5,000: $2,500 for advanced training at an accredited graduate school or field study program, and $2,500 to develop classroom enrichment activities in mathematica and science which will be matched by $2,500 from each school district.

Johnson and Perley hope to use the grant to develop a course curriculum that will not only improve the sequence of skills taught, but will reinforce the mathmatical concepts needed to solve problems in science. The teachers will target a group of students who will then be scheduled for a block of time, which will enable team teaching and the integration of science, and computer skills. The two teachers will attend intensive in-service program of 10, two-hour seminars to be taught by college staff members. These seminars, which will be available to other teachers in the school, will stress the mathematics necessary to develop science concepts, new developments in the teaching of chemistry instruction.

Our Area Will Have New Code

New England Telephone has announced that it will begin introducing a new area code—508—in July 1988 that will serve the eastern Massachusetts region north, west and south of Greater Boston.

The company said a fast-growing demand for telecommunications services in the region is quickly using up available telephone numbers, requiring that a third area code be added in the state.

NET Vice President-Massachusetts John Coleman said Area Code 508 will serve the region bounded by Area Code 413 to the west and by a new boundary encircling Greater Boston.

Coleman stressed that the new code will not affect toll rates. "A call that's not a toll call today will not be a toll call after the new code is implemented, even if a customer dials 1 plus the area code and telephone number to call across the new boundary."

Adding the new code will double the number of new telephone numbers New England telephone has available to assign eastern Massachusetts customers. The company projects that with the current rate of economic growth, the company will run out of telephone numbers in the region by early 1989 without adding a new area code.

"We're announcing our plans now to allow customers to prepare for new dialing procedures that will be used when Area Code 508 is implemented in 1988," Coleman said. "Business customers, for example, will have ample time to make such changes as new stationery and business cards. They'll also have time for customer notification."

Coleman noted that the area that will continue to be served by Area Code 617 includes variations from the company's initial announcement last year.

"This change follows further study and input from communities now served by Area Code 617," he said. "We wanted to make sure that new dialing patterns had a minimal effect on calling between communities of common interest.

"We also had various other considerations, including safety issues, to take into account while determining the boundary. We wanted to make sure that community boundaries aren't affected so that customers still have quick and easy telephone access to police and fire officials and others in their communities."

To accomplish this, he said, less than 2,200 customers living along the boundary will receive new telephone numbers so that they are included in the telephone exchanges serving their communities. The number changes are necessary because telephone exchange boundaries, which the new area code boundary follows, do not coincide with the city or town lines in all cases. Some of these customers will experience slight changes in their rates, up or down.

"We have done research and listened to our custmers' needs and concerns in setting the boundary. With that behind us, we now set our sights on informing our customers and planning for a smooth transition."

Rapid economic growth in eastern Massachusetts has helped fuel a near-record high demand for telephone lines in the five states served by the company. In 1984 alone, the company added more then 170,000 new lines, the second biggest increase in the company's 103-year history. The biggest year was 1946, the post-World War II boom year.

Similar growth elsewhere in the country has led to the addition of four new area codes since 1982 in New York City, Los Angeles, San Diego and Houston. Calling rates were not increased because of the new code and there was a minimum of customer confusion.

Customers requiring additional information on the new Massachusetts area code can call NET's Residence Response Center.

CONTEMPORARY LOOKS

In contemporary kitchens, anything that is unnecessary should be stripped away. The emphasis is on function and efficiency. This means that there is little room for busy patterns. Walls should be solid expanses of color or pure chalky white if strong colors are present elsewhere. Counter-tops, too, should be simple and sleek. Good choices are solid-color plastic laminates, butcher block and stainless steel. The same material selection applies to cabinets. Plain, unpaneled doors of handsomely grained woods, simple metal fronts or plastic laminates should be selected. For knobs and pulls, choose clean-lined metal hardware. Brushed or polished chrome finishes augment a contemporary mood. A floor covering that makes a good, plain background also should be selected.

With the "clean as you go look" of contemporary kitchens comes a more open air, larger looking. Visit

WINDSOR KITCHENS at 1181 Boston Rd., Ward Hill, and we'll give you the modern look of woods or laminates. We'll coordinate counters and give you a totally custom look. Each kitchen we do is as individual as the people using it. Whatever will make your kitchen more convenient we will do for you with professional service and quality workmanship. Decorating Main Street

For the third year in a row 15 members of the Andover Garden Club, with gardening tools in hand, set out on Main Street and some side streets to begin planting the country-style barrels that line the streets with flowers, adding a touch of beauty for the summer months. The Center Merchants Association provided the Vinca, Dusty Miller and Petunia plants while the parks department helped the Garden Club distribute the plants. When the flowers start to bloom, each merchant will maintain the appearance of the plants that decorate the business district of Andover. Christine Gould To Be Auctioneer

Several area communities will be saluted during the Channel 2 auction which begins Friday, May 30.

Friday, May 30, is salute day for the Andover area for area volunteers, merchants and others who have donated to this year's auction.

Christine Gould of Andover, go-getter area chairman for the Andover area, will be the auctioneer and will appear between 10 p.m. and closing.

During the nine-day auction, which concludes Saturday, June 7, more than 50 communities in Massachusetts and New Hampshire will be honored for their contributions and donations to the major fund-raising event for Boston's award-winning PBS station, WGBH. A display, presenting representative donations from this area, will be put up for high bid during the salute. In addition, several communities will be honored with a "Quickie Board" presentation with donated area gift certificates offered for high bid.

Each year more than 5,000 voluteers and 10,000 donors participate in the bidding-buying bonanza. This year's goal is a million dollars plus. Among the items that will be presented are a piece of the original Old Ironsides, a trip to Disney World, a cross-country ski package, 15 lbs. of country ham, Celtic season tickets and an Amish quilt.

Center Director Honored

A farewell party honoring Nancy Hey, Children's Center director, was held May 14 at the Greater Lawrence YWCA. Nancy is relocating to Washington, D.C.

She joined the newly started YWCA day care program in 1982 with six preschool children enrolled. The program has grown to include infant-toddler care through elementary school and serves 88 children. It also includes the Phone-Friend Hotline, a project funded by the M.V.U.F. for chilren home alone afterschool.

Nancy's diligent efforts and total commitment to the YWCA purpose and goals, combined with the highest standards for quality child care have resulted in one of the area's finest children's centers. She has earned the respect of coworkers, parents and community members and her contributions will be greatly missed.

Platt Exhibit Opens

An exhibition of works by etcher, painter and architect Charles A. Platt (1861-1933) opened May 12 at the Addison Gallery of American Art, Phillips Academy, Andover. Celebrating the total achievement of this 20th century Renaissance man, the exhibition includes intaglio prints, paintings and working drawings for country houses, museums and institutional architecture. The exhibition is guest curated by Keith Morgan, professor of architectural history at Boston University. Morgan recently published a definitive book on Platt which serves as the Exhibition catalog. He has also writen and narrated a 10-minute slide tape which accompanies the exhibition and provides a context for viewing the works therein.

Self taught in all phases of his career, Platt achieved recognition and success as an etcher and painter before the turn of the century. Then, first as an amateur, he designed his own country house in Cornish, N.H. Architectural commissions from friends followed and Platt moved on to urban projects in New York City. Perhaps his most successful urban designs were for museums such as the Freer Gallery in Washington, D.C., and the Addison Gallery ot American Art, Aandoer. Equally concerned with the site and setting of structures, Platt studied Italian gardens in Europe, publishing the first book on Italian gardens in English in 1894. His strong concern for control of settings as well as buildings led to an involvement with school campus planning and after completing buildings for the University of Illinois, he was called to Phillips Academy in the early '20s where he ultimately redesigned the entire campus between 1925-33.

A complete set of Platt's prints was given to the Addision in 1931 by the museum's founder, Thomas Cochran. The collection included trial prints and examples of various states of the etchings. From this collection, an adjunctive presentation entitled "The Printmaking Process of Charles Platt" has been selected to accompany the main exhibition. Various states illustrate the development of the full range of the artist's intaglio work. The exhibition continues through June 15.

urs are Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Sundays from 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. The gallery is open free to the public.

Aides Receive Certification

A candlelight ceremony was held Wednesday, May 21, at the Andover Senior Center in which 20 nurses aides from Academy Manor Nursing Home in Andover received their certification. David Solomont, administrator, and Mrs. Edwina Arsenault, R.N., director of nursing, presented the certificates and pins.

To receive certification, the nurses aides have completed 40 hours of coursework and clinical training provided by Lisa De Burro, the staff development coordinator at Academy Manor. Although the state does not require that nurses aides be certified, it is the policy at Academy Manor that its nurses aides receive the additional training to enhance their level of professonalism and expertise on the job.

Nurses aides are directly responsible for attending to the many personal care needs of Academy Manor's residents.

Receiving certificateion were Nancy Gagnon, Tina Gossman, Eva Gribble, Brunilda Torres, Paulina Concepcion, Aida Jerez, Augustin Lopez, Francia Salcedo, Grisel Froment, Antoinette Popadak, Margaret Stephens, Sandra Pasho, Altagracia Ramires de Perez, Eunices Batista, Lydia Caratini, Nieves Mercardo, Dominga Cinron and Rosa Baez.

Family and friends of the graduates were invited to the reception following the ceremony.

Volunteers Needed

For more information or to register for the program, call the hospital's volunteer office.

Neighborhood Alliance Church
The Christian and Missionary Alliance
P.O. Box 190
Andover, MA 01810

Dear Neighbors in Andover:

The Christian and Missionary Alliance is pleased to announce the formation of the Neighborhood Alliance Church in Andover.

Since its formation in 1887, The Christian and Missionary Alliance has maintained the historic Christian faith -- not merely as a creed, but as a dynamic, living reality. We believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God, fully God and fully man; that He died for the sins of humanity on the cross at Calvary; that He rose again from the dead and now sits at the right hand of the Father until He comes again in glory; and that by coming to God through genuine repentance and believing faith in Jesus Christ we receive forgiveness of sin and eternal life. This is the "Good News" of Jesus Christ.

As you will quickly discover, the foundational purpose of the Alliance is to spread this Good News to the ends of the earth, beginning in our own neighborhood. The Alliance also exists to share with you the love of Christ and His concern for people.

In over 1,600 churches, people throughout the United States have discovered that the spiritual ministry and fellowship of the Alliance provide a meaningful and challenging experience for the entire family. If you are experiencing this kind of vitality in your church, then praise God and thank Him for your pastors and church leaders. If not, or if you are not currently attending a local church on a regular basis, we invite you to attend an Open House of the Neighborhood Alliance Church on June 22nd, from 2:00-4:00 p.m., at the Sheraton-Rolling Green Inn.

The Neighborhood Alliance Church...where everybody's somebody, and Jesus Christ is Lord.

Sincerely yours,
Phillip J. Silvia, Pastor

Temporary Ramp Open

Disabled patrons may now use the temporary ramp located between Memorial Hall Library and the Texaco station. The ramp connects to the Children's Room with access to the main floor by elevator. The ramp was constructed in response to a plea from handicapped patrons who saw their previous access destroyed in the construction process. A new ground-level entrance adjacent to the rear parking lot with elevator service to each floor will be provided in the library's addition.

Library Hours

Memorial Hall Library will be closed Monday, May 26, in observance of Memorial Day. Summer hours will be in effect starting June 9. The library will be open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., but closed weekends through Labor Day.

Summer Directory

The free annual guide to "Summer Programs for Children" is available in the main reading room. Academic and enrichment programs, day and overnight camps, sports and nature camps, playground and boating programs and camps for special needs children are included. Age categories, addresses, dates and fees are provided in this up-to-date 1986 directory.

New Booklists

Two new booklists, compiled by Young Adult Librarian Leslie Baskin, are available at the library. The annual junior high reading list is full of new, old and enticing stories to appeal to any teenage reader. And with high school graduations almost here, a handout listing some gift books is especially popular. Invaluable for the student heading to college, seeking a job or developing a hobby, this list also contains ideas for gift subscriptions to magazines and local newspapers, including the TOWNSMAN.

A Tradition Will Continue At Andover High Graduation

Andover Selectman William Dalton will represent the second generation in the three generations of Daltons— who have spoken before the graduating class at Andover High School.

Dalton, who was the president of Andover High's Student Council in 1961, followed in the footsteps of his older brother, Charles F. Dalton Jr., who was senior class president in 1957, who continued the tradition of his father, Charles F. Dalton Sr., who was a class officer with the Class of 1918, and spoke at the graduation.

Dalton's son, William J. Dalton Jr., senior class president, '86, continued the tradition of the Dalton family at Andover High School.

"I would like to convey to those students what I have learned in my graduation address," Selectman Dalton said. "I am a generation ahead of them. I would like to give them an idea of the basics that will help them as they move into the next 20 years."

The senior essayist for the class of 1986 will be Gillian Mahon, 18, Lowell Street, whose winning essay was based on the theme, "A Step Toward Tomorrow." Gillian's theme begins with the Shakespeare quote, "Parting is such sweet sorrow." Her essay continues to express the accomplishments that have been made by the members of her class and the accomplishments to be achieved in the future.

"I tried to express the mixed emotions in my essay of the departure from family and friends and the end of the high school experience that can never come again." Mahon said. "We all will be entering a new era and what we do will be up to us."

Mahon will be heading for Orlando, Florida, following graduation to become a member of the medical corps of the U.S. Navy. From there, she hopes to attend U.C.L.A.

A Baccaulaureate service, on Sunday, June 1 at the South Church will be held for the senior class and their parents. The service will be non-demoninational and will begin at 7 p.m.

On Tuesday, June 3 graduation practice will be held at 10 a.m. Seniors should meet in front of the gym. After practice, they will be required to pick-up caps and gowns in the gym.

On Wednesday, June 4 " Graduation Day" will begin with a Senior Awards Breakfast at the Sheraton Rolling Green, parents are invited and tickets can be pre-purchased by Mr. King by Thursday, May 29. At 4 p.m. seniors shoudl report in ront of the gym with cap and gown in hand and prepare to begin the graduation ceremony at 5 p.m. at Eugene Lovely stadium.

The widest cave chamber in the world is the Sarqawak Chamber in Sarawak, Malaysia. Its average width is 980 feet and its minimum height is 230 feet. Yankee Stadium would fit into one end.

The widest land gorge is the Grand Canyon on the Colorado River in north-central Arizona. It's width reaches up to 13 miles.

Hearing

The Special Legislative Commission on Water Supply will hold a hearing on Thursday, May 29, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the basement of Lydon Library on the North Campus of the University of Lowell in Lowell, to receive public comment on the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority long-range water supply study.

School Board Members Upset By Student Harassment Issue

By Lisa Waterman

Supt. Kenneth Seifert and School Committee members expressed disappointment and frustration when discussing the subject of Rafael Studinski, the ten-year-old Polish youngster, who was forced to leave Andover and return to Poland as a result of the South School student harassment during Tuesday's meeting of the School Committee.

"This kind of thing should never happen to any child, human relations went astray in some tragic way." Supt. Kenneth Seifert said. "I have never worked in a community with such extremes. Within the span of 24 hours we are informed that Andover students have provided at least 100,000 hours of community service and then are informed that a student was badgered so much by fellow students he was forced to leave the school he wished to attend."

Studinski arrived in the United States from Poland last August to live with his aunt and uncle in Andover, Mr. and Mrs. George and Anna Gacek, South Main Street.

Two faculty members who spoke Studinski's native language tutored Studinski in English and spoke Polish to him. Classmates were informed by his teacher, Steve Jankauskas, about his country and the need to respect different cultures.

The wealth and freedomn of Andover and the United States impressed the ten-year-old youngster. His aunt hoped to build him up with meat and vitamins, something that is precious in his homeland.

Studzinski did not wear the suburban uniform and at times he wore the same set of clothes for more than one day in a row. His classmates accepted him and the harassment stemmed from the older children at the elementary school.

Problems occurred on the school bus, recess and at lunch. Studzinski was subjected to profanity about his country and an incident was reported of garbage piled high in front of him in the cafeteria while he was trying to eat lunch.

Seven months after his arrival, Raphael decided to return to Poland. He had taken enough.

His classmates were sadened that he was forced to leave and gave a going-away party for him. Raphael hopes someday to return to the United States, but not to school.

"I suggest that this incident is just the tip of the iceberg," Seifert said. "The alibi that children are often mean to each other has been worked to death. We are not talking about the green trees and the one-acre lots of this town. We are talking about the extreme materialism of this town."

Parent advisory councils and school councils that would discuss and deal with problems such as the one with Studzinski was suggested by School Committeeman Donald Robb.

"It is an embarrassment to the school system and to the town of Andover that someone should get this type of welcome," Robb said.

Memorial Day Tribute To Honor World War I Vets

U.S. Air Force Band

The United State Air Force Band will be among the musical units joining with veterans groups, civic leaders and other groups in paying tribute to World War I veterans during Andover's annual Memorial Day tribute Monday.

John Halachis, Massachusetts Commissioner of Veterans Affairs, will be the speaker at the principal service to be conducted at Memorial Auditorium at the municipal office building.

The four-division parade will step off at 9:30 a.m. on Florence Street, proceed to Elm Street to Elm Square to Chestnut Street to Whittier to the auditorium.

Harold S. Livingston, a World War I veteran, will be grand marshall of this year's parade. Other World War I veterans will have a special place in the parade and will be transported in cars to the main service at Memorial Auditorium.

The first division of the parade will be composed of Andover police and fire units, town officials, U.S. Army 14th Continental Army, U.S.S. Contitution unit, the Air Force Band, U.S. Coast Guard color guard, World War I veterans, local veterans organizations, Gold Star Mothers, Bergamini marching band and 1st New Hampshire Regiment.

A new feature this year will be in the second division which will be led by a number of Andover High School athletes carrying Amerian Flags. The Andover High School band and school committee members will round out the unit.

The third division will be led by Vietnam Veterans Color Guard, followed by the Clan McPherson band, Naval Reserve unit, Andover Lodge of Elks, Girl Scouts, Boston Drum and Bugle Corps and the Nathaniel Warner militia.

Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts, joined by the Lawrence Union band will compose the fourth division.

The Patriotic Holiday Committee has extended an invitation to all veterans to participate in the parade and ceremonies

Magnet School Feasibility Study Approved By Board

By Lisa Waterman

The Andover School Committee gave their approval and appointed School Committee member Richard Neal as the liaison from Andover to work with the Lawrence School Committee to begin a feasibility study to research the possibility of a "magnet" school that will service the two communities.

Andover Supt. Kenneth Seifert informed the committee that discussions with Lawrence Supt. Eugene Thayer and local legislators have been positive. Seifert said that representatives from the State Department of Education informed him that the tentative budget for the feasibility study of $161,500 would be "not a problem" and would be fully funded.

The funding for the feasibility study would be provided through Chapter 636, out of the State Department of Education grants for such projects, according to Seifert.

In 1974, the state legislature passed legislation that would allow school districts to operate as joint tenants of schools placed in more than one school

Andona Presents Clowntown '86

The Andona Society held their big out door event of the year, Clown Town, last Saturday under warm temperatures and sunny skies. Over one thousand people enjoyed the variety of games, amusement rides and food offered at this fund-raising carnival. The money raised at Clown Town will be donated to various local youth activities. This year's big show featured Mr. Slim's Old-Time Music and Vaudeville Revival, a show that included juggling, song and dance and one-man band routines. Children, wearing clown make-up, enjoyed pony rides, eating a variety of goodies and having a day of fun in a carnival atmosphere. Photos clockwise from upper left: Two-year-old Kathryn Donahue gets a close look at the caterpillar ride; five-year-old Nicole Little takes a Pepsi break from the activities; Michelle Potvin, seven, has her picture taken standing behind the clown cut-out outfit; Gene Doran, ten, Brian Landry, 11, and his sister Valerie, nine, enjoy their fried dough; nine-year-old Alan Artenstein tries his luck at the horse shoe toss game; Elizabeth Thompson keeps the balloons coming; Brian Lee and Mark O'Donnell, both age 11, enjoy the cotton candy; two-year-old Patrick Ryan, dressed for the occasion, plays a tune on his new toy; Aleksandra Matthews with her bundle of joy, 11-month-old daughter Audrey, at Clown Town.

Responsibility

It is to be assunmed that the Boston and Maine Railroad has its problems, to be sure.

But, there is one little item that they continually overlook and that is responsiblity when it comes to maintenance of the right of way as indicated by the annual outbreak of fires along the rail bed.

A cursory glance at the fire log this week indicates Andover firefighters were called on several occasions to extinguish brush fires along the rail bed in various sectors of the town.

Tuesday, the department was called upon to spend several hours off Dascomb Road extinguishing brush and railroad ties.

All of these fires are ignited by sparks from passing trains.

In most instances the fires are in remote areas, or sections with difficult access.

Fact of the matter is these fires can be avoided through what was once routine maintenance on the part of the railroad.

Annually, maintenance workers would patrol the tracks to cut back brush and weeds. Railroad ties were removed rather than stacked along the roadbed as they are now. The creosote-soaked ties, when ignited, become difficult to contain.

A year ago considerable damage was caused in the Lowell Junction area when passing trains ignited ties and brush on a windy day. The fires got out of control and burned over considerable acreage as well as severely damaging an industrial building in the area.

While no major fires have occurred here this year, the threat remains due to the continued dry spell.

Frankly, the danger can be avoided if only the administrators of the Boston and Maine would face up to the responsibility of providing a little routine maintenance through the communities through which they pass.

All This For Home-Grown Tomatoes

By Susan K. O'Neill

The strapping young men from Konjoian Farms muscled an enormous bag of peat into the hatch of my Honda. "I hope you've got somebody to help you with this at home," said one.

"Oh, yes." I smiled. "My husband."

Which was not strictly true. Paul was in Boston. I had just transported my son to a birthday party on Chandler Road; the sight of that busy greenhouse had inspired me to stop for the fixings for my annual exercise in futility—my garden.

I'm not much of a gardener. Mostly, I plant tomatoes—Burpee's Big Boys.

My parents, true gardeners, used to plant Burpee's Big Boys when I was a kid. Every season, we picked more Burpee's Big Boys than Andover has Volvos.

I loved Burpee's Big Boys because of the name. It reminded me of my uncle Vick, who used to live above, and manage, a tavern. When we came to visit, we'd sit in the bar while, fueled by Falstaff, he and his paunchy red-faced patrons swapped lies and belched.

Burpee Big Boys, they were.

But I drift.

I drove my peat home. The day was warm and sunny; I wasn't about to wait for Paul to come back to help me.

My immediate problem was to get the bale of peat—which probably weighed 100 pounds—from the car to the back yard. We don't own a wheelbarrow, so I had to make do with an old plastic sled.

I wrestled the bale down onto the sled, but it was too heavy to pull up the little bank of the front lawn.

So I rolled the bag off, ripped it open and shoveled peat onto the sled.

My shovel has a two-foot handle. It used to be longer, but I broke it digging post-holes for a town playground we built in Bar Harbor four years ago.

Quite a project, that. Not a "Dragon's Lair" a la Bancroft School, but a conglomeration of cedar logs and old tires created, literally, by the whole town.

But I digress.

Anyway, using my half shovel and orange plastic sled, I managed to transfer peat to garden. And plant my Burpee's Big Boys. In newspaper cones, so the cutworms wouldn't eat the stems.

My neighbor, Beverly, showed me how to make the cones last year, after the cutworms wiped out

By Janet D. Lake

This afternoon, Thursday, May 22, Rep. Susan Tucker will be at the center to talk about "Safety Tips for Seniors" at 12:30 p.m. There will also be a part of her program for "Janet Lake Recognition." It feels odd to write about oneself, but plan to come anyway.

The center and all town offices will be closed Monday, May 26, for Memorial Day. If you plan to come to the center for lunch Tuesday or to use the Weebus, you must make reservations no later than Friday afternoon.

Representatives of Paine Webber will be at the center to talk about investment strategy on Tuesday, May 27, from 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m. Come ask your questions of the experts. There is no obligation and, of course, it is free.

The Andover Council on Aging is collecting canned goods and nonperishable foods now through June for distribution to food kitchens in the Greater Lawrence area. Food may be droped off at the center daily between 8:30 a.m and 4:30 p.m. For more information, call the center at 470-3830.

There are a few seats left for the May 29 trip to the JFK Library. Lunch will be buffet at Anton's in Cambridge and cost for the day is $16. There is still room for you if you call now.

It is cheese distribution time again. Date of distribution is June 2 at the senior center, but, as always, you must register in advance. You may do it by telephoning the center.

Volunteers are being sought to man the Council on Aging booth at the sidewalk bazaar in June. Hours can be arranged for your convenience, but your help is really needed. This annual Andover event is always fun and the COA table is a way to help finance the many programs of the center.

Get out your calendar and mark the following day trips: Tuesday, June 5, Seabrook Race Track, cost $15 including lunch; July 10, a cruise to Provincetown (and back, of course) cost $24; July 23, an old fashion clambake at Bill Foster's in York Harbor, Maine, and a visit to Fuller Gardens along the way for $25; Wednesday, July 30, a peformance of "The King and I" at the North Shore Music Theater with luncheon at the theater for $26; Tuesday, Aug. 5, a trolley tour of Boston and Quincy Market for $15 which does not include lunch. Do get down and sign up for these exciting day trips while there is still time. They fill up quickly, you know, and we do not want you to be too late.

Don't forget, you can have your blood pressure checked any Wednesday between 2 p.m. and 3 p.m. at the center. No appontment is needed. Just be there.

district.

"The focus of the feasibility study would be to spend a considerable amount of time to see how feasible the "magnet" school concept would be," Seifert said.

The tentative time table for the study would be approximately six months, with the possibility of beginning in September.

A project coordinator that would be available to both the Andover and Lawrence School Committees and the establishment of a Feasibility Study Committee was suggested by school committee members and Supt. Seifert.

Some of the concepts of the "magnet" school would be a an Early Childhood-Grade 8 program that would highlight communications; delivery and technology and comprehensive public speaking, science and technology, use of computers and biological sciences. Along with focusing on the high order of thinking skills, research and development skills and a secondary student program that would include an advanced program of elementary experiences, a leadership institute and advanced placement. Staff development would feature curriculum development, educational leadership and management would be offered.

"Realistic proposals are the next step," School Committee Chairman Michael R. Giammusso said. "There is no question that a Feasibility Study Committee has to be appointed to make this an economic reality and to follow through with the possibilities of a "magnet" school."

my entire crop. Beverly is a real gardener. She plants peas as soon as the ground thaws, and grows strawberries and herbs. She's also a lovely, forgiving person—she taught me how to make the cones, even after Kim's rabbit got loose and ate her herbs.

But that's another story.

Beverly's garden is already growing. Although she's too polite to say it, she probably thinks that I'm not much of a gardener, with my tomatoes and half shovel and sled. It's true, of course. My tomatoes usually stay green; by July, the weeds are taller than the plants.

That's all right with me. I figure that even though I may not get many Burpee's Big Boys for my labor, I come out on top in musings and memories.

In ancient China, offspring honored their fathers on a special occasion with a beautiful robe that was a tribute to a lifetime of achievements—what the Chinese called a longevity robe.

Volunteers

The DeCordova Museum is seeking applicants to be docents or volunteer guides for its exhibitions. Docents serve not only as educators in the museum's galleries, but are the museum's most visible ambassadors. Docents are selected for their demonstrated interest in art and public speaking skills. Docents participate in a 15-week training program consisting of art apreciation and history and public speaking exercises. The training program begins October 2 and ends January 29, meetng every Thursday morning.

Docents are expected to commit a minimum of approximately five hours per week.

The DeCordova Museum, located in Lincoln, offers five to seven changing exhibitions a year with an emphasis on contemporary art. The museum is situated on a 30-acre park punctuated with sculpture by local and world renowned artists.

For further information, call Eleanor Lazarus, director of education. Letters of interest and resumes should be sent to Docent Program, DeCordova Museum, Sandy Pond Road, Lincoln, MA 01773. Deadline for applications is June 20.

Warriors Roll Over Tewksbury

New tennis coach Laura Goodman has two reasons to celebrate this week. She graduated from Boston College on Monday and her team upped their record 14-1 Tuesday by beating Tewksbury High 5-0 in their second last match of the season. Coach Goodman, a former varsity tennis player for A.H.S., and her 20-member team will be concentrating on the upcoming state tournament, date to be announced. Andover, undefeated and league champs the last two years, took first place away from a tough Chelmsford team last Friday. The Warriors only loss was to that Chelmsford team earlier in the season. Putting in a fine performance for Andover on Tuesday was Co-Capt. and senior Ronnie Kovner and her partner, Jen Hechmey, as they held onto their undefeated record of 7-0 by winning their matches in doubles 6-1 6-1. The other Co-Capt. senior Erin Kaufman did not play on Tuesday but has had a good season with a record of 7-2 in single matches. Photos clockwise from upper left: Sophomore Liz Jurek returns this shot. She won her matches 6-4, 4-6 and 6-3 making her record for the season 8-3; junior, Hayley Hannigan, makes an extra effort to keep the ball in play winning her double match; Lisa Weingarten, junior, partner with Hayley Hannigan, strikes a winning pose as she and her partner defeat their opponetts 6-1 6-1. Lisa and Hayley hold onto their undefeated record of 8-0 for this season. The two were also undefeated last year 15-0; Sue Clark, junior, was on her toes for this match as she had no trouble winning her sets 6-1 6-2.

Best Is All-Star In Lacrosse

Two members of the Bates College men's lacrosse team were selected to play in the annual New England East-West All-Star game in Springfield; senior attackman Bob Best of Andover and senior midfielder John Boyle of Wayland.

Best was Bates' leading scorer in 1986, tallying 34 goals and 13 assists over the season. A graduate of Phillips Academy, he is the son of George and Helen Best, 173 Main St., Andover.

Boyle was instrumental in the Bobcats' 11-3 season. He scored 12 goals and racked up 16 assists, second highest on the team, for 28 points.

The annual East-West game features New England's finest lacrosse players from large and small schools.

Indians 9 - Cubs 4

The Cubs went ahead in the top of the first on a three-run blast by Garrett Ferris. But, good Indian defense held and allowed only one more run for the rest of the game. Meanwhile, the Tribe scored two in the second, three in the third and four in the fifth.

Ferris led the Cubs with a single, double, homer and three RBIs. Jim Hanning, Gus Quattlebaum, Chris Hall, Ryan Lynch, John Mangan and Ricky Saggese had single safeties.

Matt Reghitto led the Indian attack with three hits. Mike Daley, Ryan Kelley and bobby Daley had two hits each and Tom Torrisi, Mark Baker and Jeff Pothier had single safeties.

John Shea and Quattlebaum shared the mound for the Cubs and Reghitto and Daley did the same for the Indians.

Chris Shea played good defense for the Tribe, picking off a runner from the outfield. First baseman Saggese was the glove man for the Cubs.

Indians 7 - Pirates 4

This game was tied until the Tribe put three across in the sixth. The pitching was superb. Indians' Mark Hopkinson went the distance and struck out nine. Cubs' Andy Noveline and Matt Daniels shared seven Ks.

Ryan Kelley knocked in the winning runs with a double and picked up a single. Mike Daley (2 hits, 1 RBI), Hopkinson (2 hits, 2 RBIs), Bobby Daley (2 hits, 1 RBI) and Tom Torrisi (1 hit) shone offensively for the Tribe. Cubs' hitters were Chris Zappala (2 hits) and Andy Noveline, Peter Cookson, Ed Capeless and Toby Guzowski contributed base hits.

Indians 6 - Orioles 4

Tinmely hitting and good baserunning produced four Indian runs through three innings, but the Orioles exploded for four to even it up in the last of the third. The Tribe picked up two in the fifth, while Mark Hopkinson (6 Ks) came on to hold the Orioles at bay for the last three innings. Matt Reghitto also pitched well. Chad Bownan (His Little League debut) was very effective for the Orioles as was Chatham Harish.

Bobby Daley led the Indians with 2 hits and 3 RBIs, Mark Hopkinson (2 RBIs) and Reghitto had two hits each and Mike Daley and Matt Jennings picked up singles. Adam Goddess led the Orioles with two hits and Sean Garrity and Ryan Rygwalski had base hits.

Defensive stars were Goddess and the Tribes' Greg Lebreck.

Indians 2 - White Sox 0

This was Little League baseball at its finest. Both teams combined outstanding pitching and strong defense and kept the fans on the edge of their seats. The pitching duel was between Indians' Mike Daley (6 innings, 7 Ks, 4 hits and the shutout) and the Sox's Scott Eggert (3 innings, 7 Ks, 3 hits) and Kevin Murphy (2 innings, 4 Ks, 2 hits).

Mark Hopkinson (3 hits, 2 RBIs) and Daley (2 hits) accounted for all the Indians' hits. The White Sox four hits were spread out among John Melillo, Colin Arsenault, Mike Famiglietti and Adam Lang.

Both shortstops, Sox Bobby Sheehan and Tribe Tom Torrisi, were outstanding. Famiglietti and the Indians' Nate Roberts and Jeff Pothier played strong defense.

Orioles 10 - Red Sox 6

slam homer to tie the Orioles at 6-6 in regulation play. The Orioles had certain victory in their grasp with two outs in the bottom of the sixth and the score 6-2 in their favor, but the Red Sox loaded the bases via walks, one pitch to Lembo and the game was even. Four Orioles scored in the seventh and pitcher Shawn Garrity shut out the Red Sox to gain an extra inning win.

The Red Sox scored first when Dave Livingston, with an infield single, scored on Adam Ferry's double. The Orioles' Rodd Malitsky delivered Adam Goddess, who had singled, to tie the contest in the second inning. First baseman Ron Rygwalski doubled home Goddess in the third and later scored on a passed ball for a 3-1 Oriole lead. Three more runs gave the Orioles a five-run lead into the sixth.

In the meantime, Oriole starter Chethan Haris and reliever Malitsky shut out the Sox for four innings.

Enter Lembo with his grand slam over the fence in left center. The Orioles scored four runs in their half of the seventh to provide Garrity with the runs he needed to gain the win.

Ten-year-old Jeff Lembo pitched a fine game, striking out four and not allowing a base on balls in his four innings of work.

The defensive play of the game occured in the third when Oriole second baseman Chad Bowman made a backhanded stab of a Livinston shot to end a scoring threat. Catcher Jon Iarrobino did a great job of cutting down a pair of Orioles on steal attempts.

Oriole base hits were provided by Paul Durant (2), Garrity, Goddess (2), Rygwalski (3), John Bowman and Malitsky. The Red Sox countered with Lembo (3) Livingston (2), Ferry and Bobby Conchiglia.

Twins 6 - Red Sox 5

In a hard-fought battle, the Twins eeked out a win in their first meeting with the Red Sox. The Sox opened the scoring on singles by Chris Lembo, Dave Livingston and Josh Nelkin off Twins' starter Keith Bilger. The Twins tied the game in the second on singles by Paul Lisiak and Greg Poor.

Adam Ferry reached Twins' reliever Mark McKenna in the third for a three-run homer. The Twins fought back when Poor got a bases-loaded single off pitcher Lembo. Ferry again hit the round tripper in the fifth to give the Sox a 5-3 margin. Tim Plankey at first base highlighted the Twins' defense making five unassisted putouts over the last two innings.

Singles by Poor, Bilger and Brian Hussey evened the score in the bottom of the sixth. Then, with the bases filled, Todd Cadagan hit a sharp grounder to Jeff Lembo at third; Jeff fired home, but Hussey slid under the tag with the winning run.

White Sox 15 - Yankees

The White Sox beat the Yankees 15-3. Eleven-year-old Mike McCarthy struck out 17 batters out of a possible 18. He only let up three base hits. According to league officials it is probably a record, but there are no official records kept on file.

Rob Lewis led the White Sox offensive power with his first grand slam and six RBIs.

Junior Warriors Stay Hot

By Dan Grams

The Andover High School Junior Varsity baseball team continued their winning ways by taking two of three ballgames last week. They collected 30 safeties en route to victories over league rival Billerica and Dracut before bowing to Chelmsford.

Andover 11 - Billerica 9

The Golden Warriors, trailing 7-1, rallied for five runs in the fourth and two in the fifth to come from behind 11-9.

Andover struck first in the open stanza as Steve Howes led off with a walk and stole second. Howes continued to third on an errand throw and was rescued on a Mike Klinger sacrifice fly.

Billerica responded for five runs in the second to chase Andover starter Klinger from the mound in favor of Barry Connors. Billerica built their lead to 7-1 after four innings.

At this point the Golden Warriors pushed across five runs in the fourth to cut the lead 7-6.

Chris Concerni led off with a walk and scored on Mark Hashem's RBI double. Connors followed with a walk, putting runners on first and second. Consecutive singles by Howes, Mark Tucker and Chris Onufer kept the rally alive. Concerni and Mike Moriarty followed with RBI walks. Hashem was robbed of a safety on a nice stab of a hot shot up the middle.

Gerry Nassif was the new Warrior hurler and the junior righthander responded with Andover's first 1-2-3 inning.

Andover and Billerica traded a pair of runs in the fifth leaving Billerica with a 9-8 lead. Andover's runs came across via an error, a Barry Connors double and two well placed sacrifice hits by Ryan Murphy and Jeff Kittleson.

The Golden Warriors finally overtook Billerica in the sixth when Rick Lafond started things with a single and stole second. Concemi was plunked by a pitch, Nassif followed with an RBI single to knot the game at 9 before Tom Murray unloaded a bases-clearing triple.

Billerica loaded the bases with no outs in the seventh. Lafond was brought out, going 3-0 on the first hitter he faced before fanning him on three straight pitches and retiring the next three hitters to preserve the win.

Andover 16 - Dracut 6

Andover lit up the scoreboard in every inning but the last to the tune of 16 runs on 13 hits, defeating Dracut 16-6.

Mark Hashem was the winning pitcher, raising his record to 3-1. He fired a four hitter with five strikeouts and five walks in five innings. Chris Concemi mopped up, striking out three in his brief start.

Trailing 10, Andover grabbed the lead and never looked back in their home half. Steve Howes led off with a single. Mike Klinger launched a towering triple to plate Howes. Following a Dracut miscue, Barry Connors and Gerry Nassif ripped singles, giving Andover a 3-1 lead.

The Golden Warriors score proved to be the winning run in the second. Consecutive singles by Jeff Kittleson, Howes, Klinger, Concemi, Chris Patten and Connors set the stage for Nassif's bases-clearng double to give Andover a 7-1 lead and they would never look back.

Chelmsford 7 - Andover 5

Lefty Mike Klinger was the tough-luck loser for Andover tossing a seven hitter. He allowed just two runs while walking three and fanning six.

Chelmsford jumped to an early 4-0 lead as Andover committed four errors in the opening frame. The Lions would up their lead in the second before Andover got on the board in the third.

Jeff McNeil walked, Nassif and Klinger singled to load the bases and a pair of Lion errors put Andover on the board.

The Golden Warriors left a total of nine runners stranded, including the bases loaded, in the fourth and fifth.

Chelmsford picked up single tallies in the fifth and sixth, giving them a 7-3 lead, but Andover made a game of it in the final stanza.

Patten and Nassif had two hits while Howes, Klinger, Hashem,

Tris Speaker, the great American baseball player, was known as the Grey Eagle because of his gray hair and his speed in playing the outfield.

Lawn Care

A lawn needs three major nutrients to grow, develop and stay healthy—nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium.

Nitrogen is the first, and most important, element of a fertilizer analysis, such as the 28 in a 28-3-3 analysis. It promotes greening and blade development, as well as thicker turf.

Phosphorus is the second nutrient in the analysis. For mature or established grass plants, it's essential to the development of the root structure and rhizomes. For newly seeded areas, it promotes seedling growth and early maturity.

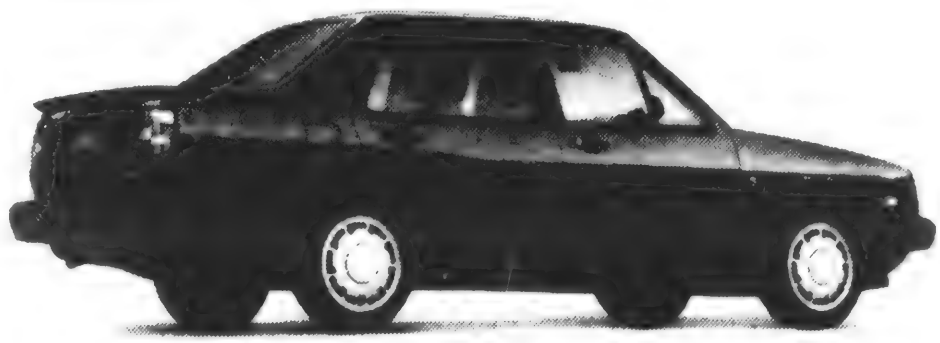

The third element, potassium, contrubutes to the overall health, vigor and hardiness of the grass plant and aids in protein production.

Consider this special Audi. But don't take too long.

1 0 0 YEARS
COMMEMORATIVE DESIGN

To mark the centennial of the German automobile, we have commissioned a special model of the Audi 4000S sedan.

The Commemorative Design Audi 4000CS sedan is a fitting tribute to this occasion. Alcantara suede sport seats with leather bolsters, AM/FM stereo cassette, power sunroof, and many other distinctive appointments complement the 4000CS' already substantial list of standard features.

A limited number of the Commemorative Design models have been produced. Each one has a century of engineering advancements behind it, but far less time is available for a test drive.

The Commemorative Design Audi 4000CS sedan. Consider one before it, too, becomes history.

The art of engineering.

Le Studio de Ballet: Ask the Students

At Le Studio de Ballet, Julie Palmquist and Leonora LaDue, en pointe, model ballet costumes representative of those worn during the Classic (L) and Romantic (R) periods.

"Margaret Earle is an excellent teacher. As a teacher myself—I teach violin—I can appreciate that. I trained in a Russian ballet school in California; when I came here, I was looking for a very specific training. It was wonderful to find what wanted five minutes from my home in Andover—I'd expected to have to commute to Boston.

"What the school gives is a very pure form of ballet...Margaret teaches it as an art. She teaches the correct techniques; that's important. And she takes her adult students as seriously as the kids, even though they're not likely to go on with it to the stage.

"Also, she's very positive, a very positive teacher."

—Leonora LaDue
Adult student

"I used to be a skater. I started taking ballet about two years ago; with ballet, I've learned a lot of discipline. It's also a fun way to get lots of exercise...

"People think,'Ballet—get dressed up in a tutu'...They think it's easy.

"They don't understand it."

—Julie Palmquist
Age 14

Le Studio de Ballet is now registering students for the summer session (June 9-Aug 22) and the fall term (beginning Sept 8). Classes are available in Beginner thru Intermediate levels for children, and Beginner/Beginner thru Intermediate for adults. Discounts are offered for senior citizens and parents of students.

Classes are taught by director Margaret Earle, alumnus of the Royal Danish School of Ballet, Denmark, and feature the accompanyment of Tanya Kodinsky and Karin Kohl.

Introducing the Hawkswood Estate at Point Shore:

For those with a dream, and about $350,000 to spend for it.

When finished, there will be just 18 units here on this magnificent 10-acre peninsula overlooking the steep banks and broad flow of one of New England's great rivers.

Quite emphatically, these dwellings are not the typical "condo," the smallish place one settles for when his "real" home becomes too much of a bother. No, these are spacious 2,500 to 3,500 square foot units—elegant, spacious, secure, and private.

Very, very private.

You may look upon Hawkswood as a vacation home that you're fortunate enough to live in permanently.

Or as one of the last remaining gracious, environmentally responsible havens within the North Shore, yet only minutes from downtown Newburyport.

Or as a moderately expensive inducement to get the children to visit.

At any rate, if you're prepared to fulfill a slightly immodest dream, we should be happy to show you this splendid concept.

For an appointment to view the few remaining luxury residences phone our marketing director, Debra Tomaszewski, at (617) 388-1104 or view daily from 10:00-4:00 pm; weekends 10:00-6:00 pm.

EXPENSIVE PITFALLS

The $125,000 Federal income tax exclusion for the sale of the principal residence of persons over 55 years old can mean many thousands of dollars in tax savings. However, there are some important points to keep in mind:

This exclusion can be used only once, regardless of the amount of profit realized on the sale. If a $75,000 profit is excluded from taxable income on the sale of a home this year, you DO NOT still have $50,000 remaining which could be excluded on the sale of your next home. Once this tax savings device is used, it is lost forever, even if the entire $125,000 exclusion cannot be used.

Another thing to keep in mind is that the exclusion is not $125,000 per person for married couples for a total of $250,000. The most a married couple can exclude is $125,000.

A person over 55 who has never used the exclusion can lose it if he or she marries someone who has used the exclusion previously. If either the husband or the wife has ever used the exclusion, neither can ever use it again.

TAX SAVINGS FOR HOMEOWNERS

Buying a home is a good idea for a number of reasons, and one of the most important is tax savings.

At first glance, it may look like the monthly costs for your mortgage and taxes are much higher than the rent for a comparable home.

If, for example, you're planning to buy a home with a 70,000 mortgage at 11½ percent and annual taxes of 1200, your monthly cost would be approxitemately 793.00. The good news comes when you consider your tax bracket and calculate the amount you save each month. During the early years of your loan, almost all of the mortgage payment and all of your local real estate taxes can be deducted on your state and federal returns. If, for example, you're in the 30 percent bracket, you can save about 230 each month, bringing your net monthly housing bill to 563.

Furthermore, when you own a home these monthly expenses remain relatively stable. You'll never again have to worry about inevitable rent increases.

If you would like a personalized home buyer's analysis to show your potential tax savings on a new home purchase, contact the professionals at Realty USA, Schruender Real Estate. Give us a call at 685-5000, or stop by our offices at 73 Chickering Road, North Andover.
